Built in the 1800's, the Chapel required complete interior demolition which included removal of an interior upper chapel ceiling exposing hidden German artistry. New drywall high ceilings were then installed and the artistry was duplicated. In addition, the 10 stained glass window units were removed and restored to their original beauty. The 100' bell tower was shored and new foundation work was installed. The main sanctuary finishes consisted of refinished wood floors and award-winning millwork.
